

THE EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF MARYLAND

ANNUAL MINISTRIES APPEAL

CAMPUS MINISTRY

Who We Are

“So, Jesus. . .” That’s what Leon used to say to bring our attention back whenever we got off on a tangent during Bible study at UMBC. And it sums up what campus ministry does. We get to point to Jesus in a world of distraction on our college campuses.

We are the church on campuses around the diocese as we make common spaces on campuses into holy ground as we gather around home-cooked meals together to share our joy, our pain and our struggles. We teach each other how to love more like Jesus, offering a joyful welcome to those who are not welcome elsewhere.

We discuss the stories of Jesus in Scripture and talk about the needs of the world amidst atheists, agnostics, Christians of all sorts- anyone who walks in the door. And we engage the questions and doubts of those who want to follow Jesus, but don’t always know how.

We invite students to serve with us, such as at the monthly Community Table at Towson. Students cook and share a meal with those in need of food simply because this is a Jesus thing. And we invite students on Spring Break trips to delve deeper into issues of racism, poverty, and immigration while discussing our unique call as followers of Jesus to care for human need.
